

I really like the hopelessness at the beginning, with such a dark televised gameshow at the centre. The character of Katniss Everdeen is rebellious, determined and the person who changed everything.

‘Catching Fire’
by Suzanne Collins
is Mrs Golledge’s favourite book.

My special memory of the book was when my whole family read all three books in the series on a camping holiday in Cornwall. I was second in the ‘queue’ of readers, behind my daughter, and couldn’t wait for her to finish each book so I could move on.
