

I loved finding out which land had arrived at the top of the tree in each chapter. The characters were really interesting too such as Moonface and Saucepan Man. In each land something always went wrong and it turned into many adventures to put things right again.

Enid Blyton's 'The Magic Faraway Tree' is Mrs Hughes's favourite book.

I loved the upside down land when all the local people walked around on their hands and the buildings were all topsy-turvy! I shared this books with my mother and enjoyed sharing the same book with my eldest son.
